

Cookies Policy

CIFA is committed to ensuring that your privacy is protected when using our e-learning website. This cookie policy explains what cookies are, how we use them on our website, and how to control them.

Cookies are small text files that are placed on your computer or mobile device by websites that you visit. They are widely used in order to make websites work, or work more efficiently, as well as to provide information to the owners of the site.

We use cookies to improve the functionality of our website and to better understand how visitors use it. For example, we use cookies to remember your preferences and login information, to provide personalised content and ads, and to analyse website traffic.

You can control and manage cookies through your browser settings. You can choose to accept or reject cookies, or to be notified when a cookie is set. However, please note that if you choose to reject cookies, you may not be able to use certain features of our website.

We do not use cookies to collect personally identifiable information about you. We do not share any information collected by cookies with third parties.

By using our website, you consent to our use of cookies in accordance with this policy. If we make any changes to this policy, we will update this page to reflect those changes.

If you have any questions about our cookie policy, please contact us at our registered office.
